At Orvieto Musica, the charm of living in a 12th century Italian hill town is surpassed only by the pleasure of playing chamber music every day. Living in apartments, eating fresh to order meals in local restaurants, relaxing into the Italian lifestyle, and being welcomed by the townspeople who eagerly await your concerts free you to focus intensely on your art and colleagues in beautiful performance venues.

During this three-week performance workshop, Orvieto Musica challenges emerging artists in their artistry, showcasing the beauty and international life of small-town Italy, providing a supportive, intense, and inspiring environment.
